

Your favourite website:

YouTube. It's amazing what you can find, organize into playlists, create, and post for educational purposes! Oh, and it's free!

A gadget you can't live without:

My iPod. I've got to have music. It's the soundtrack of my life.

Something you'd never throw away:

A little stuffed lion from a Summer Camp I worked at while in college. Because of the experience, that Fall I began my journey as an educator when I decided to go into Elementary Education.

Who or what inspires you?

I'm inspired by innovation and those that choose to innovate.

Useful teaching tool:

Sticky notes, without a doubt! Great in the classroom for a number of purposes.

Your favourite lesson:

Fairy tales explored through inquiry and conceptual lenses.

Your favourite bit about your talk:

Taking complex educational theories and demonstrating their simple integration and application in the classroom.

A lesson you've learnt while teaching:

Never take anyone or anything for granted. I have gained a lot from the reflective insights of some of my youngest students.
